INSTRUCTIONAL TECHNOLOGY CERTIFICATE

The Graduate Certificate in Instructional Technology provides students with the knowledge, skills, and dispositions needed to effectively integrate technology into their teaching, to design and deliver distance and online courses, and to lead organizational instructional technology initiatives. The program takes a research-to-practice approach by grounding instructional technology practice in research-based evidence. The certificate is available both on campus and online.

NOTE: This certificate is not a credential for teacher certification/licensure.

Admissions

Applicants to the on campus or online IT Certificate Program (Instructional Technology CRT) must be students in good standing in a master's, education specialist, or doctoral degree program. Alternatively, students may hold a bachelor's degree and have completed 18 graduate credit hours in a teaching discipline or professional field.

See the Admission Criteria section of this catalog for more information.
